Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Differences between the disclosed invention and the prior art were discussed. For example, figure 1 of the disclosure shows audio server 10 and video server 20, which appear to be on separate systems. As another example, figure 1 of the disclosure shows an audio stream being transmitted to remote site 40 and then to a recipient, whereas the disclosed video stream appears not to pass through remote site 40. Additionally, applicant asserted that Bae does not teach a web page that performs the same functions as the web page disclosed by applicant. The examiner notified applicant that there appeared to be some ambiguity as to what functions the web page disclosed by Bae performs, and that further consideration is warranted. Claim interpretation was also discussed. For example, the examiner interprets the "VoIP audio server" in claim 2, element d as anything capable of "transmitting the the source digital audio signal ..." as claimed.
